

PROCLAMATION

Childhood Cancer Awareness Month

WHEREAS, families, caregivers, charities and research groups across the United States, as well as our national government, are observing the month of September as Childhood Awareness Month to memorialize the young lives that have been taken too soon, and to honor those fighting and those that have survived, but yet face major health challenges associated with this disease; and

WHEREAS, approximately 13,500 children under the age of 18 will be diagnosed with cancer in 2014, with around one in five of those children dying within the first five years, including children in our own community; and

WHEREAS, childhood cancer is the leading cause of death by disease among children under 18 years of age; and

WHEREAS, while progress against some childhood cancers has been made, cure rates for many forms of childhood cancer remain less than 50%; and

WHEREAS, childhood cancers cross all racial, ethnic, geographic and social backgrounds; and

WHEREAS, in the month of September we honor the children who have, or still are, battling cancer, their families and caregivers, the researchers and health-care professionals, concerned citizen advocates and private philanthropies, who collaborate to provide hope and assistance to the children and their families affected by childhood cancer.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DeWayne Hopkins, Mayor of the City of Muscatine, Iowa, do hereby proclaim the month of September as Childhood Cancer Awareness Month in the City of Muscatine and urge all citizens to memorialize the young lives that have been taken too soon and to honor those fighting and those who have survived childhood cancer.

Signed and sealed this 4th day of September, 2014.
